THE MOUNTAIN DEPARTMENT.

A telegraphic dispatch which we published a day or two since advises us of the continued activity of General Fremont in his new Mountain Department. Having attacked and driven clear out of western Virginia the main body of the rebels, he has turned his attention to the extinction of the guerilla bands, and the restoration of order and the supremacy of the laws. Already he has destroyed the guerillas in Braxton, Webster, and the adjoining counties, killing seventeen men, capturing nineteen, and compelling the leaders to sue for mercy and offer to surrender.

When Fremont took command at Wheeling, not a single movement had been made by our troops in western Virginia during the winter or spring. Scarcely had he assumed the reins before he ordered General Milroy to advance against the enemy and pursue or fight, as the case might be. It turned out that there was no fight in the rebels. They fled to the mountains, were pursued through them across the valleys, and finally entrenched themselves on the heights of the Shenandoah ridge.

In order to clear up the work as he went, and leave no chance for the enemy to create a diversion, he allowed the entrenched foe to remain on the ridge, and commenced the work of attacking and exterminating the guerillas. Driving them away from their positions, the favorite plan with some of our shot-sighted commanders, did not answer with Fremont. Had them pursued, attacked flying, slain wherever met, and ordered severe measures only to be made use of, and we already see the effect of this policy. Another expedition against the guerillas, sent from Romney, had killed and wounded a number of them, and was gradually driving them down the valley or destroying them. This is a different region from the one referred to above, and the fact shows that Fremont is really devoting a great deal of energy to his department.

Had these guerillas in the neighborhood of the south branch of the Potomac who were attacked by Col. Downey, been left undisturbed, they would have hovered upon the communications of General Banks, just across the ridge, intercepting supplies and cutting off stragglers.

Operations of this kind, though seemingly insignificant, are among the most important of this campaign, for were not these guerilla bands to be got rid of they would greatly retard the progress of our armies, and possibly detract from our chances of success. These were the services which Fremont rendered with so much skill in Missouri, and hence it was that his large force was divided and dispersed through the whole State.

He has yet a large amount of this sort of work before him, the valley of the Kanawha and all southwestern Virginia being as yet infested with rebels. We could wish that more details of this campaign got before the public, for we get nothing more than the official telegraphic dispatch from Fremont himself to the War Department, but we look forward to the progress of events with interest. When Fremont was appointed, the general inquiry was, where is he to find an army? It seems that he has forces in the field. Already we hear of two of his brigades in active service—those of Milroy and Schenck, and doubtless others will appear in their appropriate places somewhere in the Department. So far as we can gather from Fremont's operations, his plan seems to be to get rid finally of all trouble in western Virginia, reorganize the loyal authority, extirpate the guerillas, and then consolidate all his scattered forces for some grand attack. It would not be surprising if at that time he should find himself in the field at the head of a full corps d'armee.

When Floyd and Lee invaded western Virginia their large force was successfully combatted by Rosecrans with an equaling it in size, and so far as we know, none of this army has been sent out of this region; though where the brigades of Tyler, Cox, Morris, and others, have been beaten we are unable to say. Bonham had a brigade there, which he was sent away from when he was ordered to Washington. We make no doubt, therefore, that a considerable army has been kept idle in western Virginia, holding various positions, and accomplishing no purpose whatever. General Rosecrans did his field work well, and deserves credit therefor. But his military talents pertained only to the maneuvering of armies and the winning of battles, and took in nothing of the condition of the occupied country. Fremont has already proved himself admirably adapted to the duties now confided to him. He will clear western Virginia of guerillas, as he did Missouri, and before long his troops, concentrated in one column, will move down against more formidable foes than the scattered banditti of the mountain region. Thus much justice is due to one who has been made the target of calumny for his career at the west, and who is now nobly redeeming his name.

A letter from Pittsburg Landing, April 17, speaks of "tangle-foot whiskey." What kind of whiskey is that? Most all whiskey is apt to tangle the feet.

We quote from the letter referred to—
"The Southern Army at Corinth has been on half rations for more than a month. The men have been fed on hard bread, pork, and rye coffee—a diet very much calculated to extract from the soldiers' life the romance which Southern chivalry might be supposed to invest it. On the first morning of the late battle, however, an extra ration was issued, in the shape of a tangle-foot whiskey, which was a keen full of tangle-foot whiskey to each man. This I know by actual observation, as well as by the statements of wounded rebels and prisoners. On last Saturday I saw not less than fifty bodies of dead rebels piled up on one place, by the side of a ditch, being dug for their burial. Nearly every one of these has by its side a canteen with more or less liquor in it."

On the Sunday in which the first of the battle was fought, more than one half of Beauregard's army was drunk. The object of the "extractions" is apparent. On the plea that this is a struggle for human rights, they convert their soldiers into demons before engaging in it. The people of the North have often wondered how the Southern soldiers could be guilty of the acts of barbarism that have disgraced the American character on every battle field from Bull Run to Pittsburg Landing. But does not the extra ration account for them all? It does not astound the readers of daily newspapers to learn of the commission of deeds of atrocity by the poor wretches brought daily before the police courts for punishment, and they should not be astonished if the same causes produced the same effect elsewhere than in the streets of Cincinnati and New York.

The Delaware State Journal, a paper which advocates emancipation in that State in an article on this subject, has the following remarks on the slang nick-names applied to the foe of slavery, which many papers in free States would do well to consider:
"The force and meaning of the terms 'Abolitionist,' 'Black Republican,' and other mean epithets which have been systematically and persistently heaped upon those who refused to bow the knee to slavery, and subvert its ambitious designs upon the liberties of the country. Such slang nick-names will no longer serve to cheat honest men of their votes, but are passed by as meaningless and insulting deceptions, calculated to cover up the real objects of their inventors, and assist them the more readily to ally into power and partake of the luxury of public plunder, which they so well know, from experience and practice, how to enjoy. They begin to realize the fact that slavery, and not abolitionism, is the pernicious parent of all our national troubles. That it is the forging of the chains for human limbs to wear in perpetual bondage, and not the plundings of liberty in behalf of all her children, which has to-day deluged the land in blood, and desolated a large portion of the country. 'Thousands of honest, patriotic, loyal hearts are ready to inscribe Emancipation on their banners' and bear it to triumph through the storm of bullets or the more calm battle of the ballot box."

The Parrot Gun.—The New York Journal of Commerce makes the following statement relative to these guns which are doing the country such good service—
"Mr. Parrott has made important improvement in the gun and missile since his first invention, the nature of which it would not be proper to speak of in this connection. It would equally be ill fitted to give the wonderful results of certain experiments, recently made by the inventor, the scientific world must wait—real long, perhaps—for the repetition of these experiments on a grander scale in actual operations. A revolution is not a rash one, that these great Parrott guns will upset good many notions of invulnerability that are now regarded as scientific truths. And the end is not yet. Guns of still larger calibre are in process of construction, which will in their turn shoot new ideas into the rebels, and, perhaps, furnish a new topic to the British Parliament."

Slave-catching is at a discount in Virginia. Mr. Norton, United States Marshal for that district, was recently requested by one George Buckley, of Deverly, to arrest a fugitive, but declined for reasons thus pithily set forth:
"In answer, I have to say that I had the disposition (which I have not), as a United States Marshal I have no right, no power to comply with your request. The government of the United States knows nothing of slavery in Virginia except as a domestic institution, created, regulated and governed by state law. State officers therefore are alone qualified, legally to arrest your negro. If an officer of the general government, as such, should obey your request, he would, in my opinion, exceed his power, and ought to be dismissed."

The Southern Watchman, a religious paper, says:
"We read an earnest Methodist divine, and one who, by the way, is not less brilliant as a soldier and a statesman than a clergyman, expresses the opinion that a war of fourteen or fifteen years duration would be far more desirable to the South than a short war, because it will take a long time to wear us from our old habits of commercial dependence upon the North, and to purge us finally and forever the last moral, social and political taint and veil of the Union."

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

PISCATORY.—The mail boat brought from New Shorham yesterday afternoon three large halibut, the heaviest of which weighed 178 pounds. While the fish was being weighed in Mr. Albion's market, a stranger peeped in and enquired "where that whale was caught?" He was gravely informed that the big fish was captured near the shores of a foreign country, which satisfied his curiosity and he passed on. The two remaining ones, which weighed about one hundred and fifty pounds each, were taken to Tift's Market, on Banister's Wharf, where they were looked upon by the passers by as quite a "sight."

Fifteen hundred dollars worth of cod fish were brought ashore at Ball's Landing, New Shorham, on Wednesday.

Two tautaug were caught off Pine Hill Beach yesterday by Benjamin Oman, one weighing fourteen and the other thirteen pounds.

A large round maker, the first that has been caught this season, was taken in the West Bay yesterday by Pardon Stevens' Company.

After waiting with breathless expectation for several days, we are at last enabled to make the joyful announcement "SOUKS COME!" A large quantity of these fish made their appearance on Banister's Wharf this morning.

A MEAN TRICK.—A poor lame boy, who is familiarly known as "Lame Billy," came over from New Shorham yesterday on his way to Narragansett, where he is to visit his friends. Last evening he called at a hat store and exhibited his portmanteau, which contained, what in his eye was a large amount of money, some 60 cents, and informed the hat dealer that he wished to buy a hat. The storekeeper was acquainted with Billy, and knowing his circumstances, made him a present of a beaver. A certain traveling merchant who stood by looking on, remarked that he had a second hand hat that he thought would fit the customer, and invited the poor boy to his room to try it on. In a few minutes Billy came back in possession of an old worthless, worn-out hat, and with satisfaction, bearing in his hand informed the storekeeper that he bought it for only seventeen cents! That man ought to be employed as a missionary.

AN IMPORTANT ARRIVAL.—The Island Belle arrived from New Shorham yesterday with the following interesting items of freight:
Two yoke of oxen, two cows, five calves, two large pig sties, each fully intubated, a large quantity of codfish tongues and the three large halibut referred to in our pictorial notice. What room remained was crowded to suffocation with passengers, consisting in part of one entire family, of which a large part were children. Unfortunately for the last mentioned class this was fortunately counter-balanced, however, by the consideration that one of the family was a physician. Taking into consideration the fact that they were some 8 hours making the passage it must have been an event in the lives of the passengers long to be remembered.

Court of Justices.

FRIDAY.
The Court opened this morning, with a case of assault and battery. The complainant was Annie Crocker and the respondent Thomas Shields. The warrant charged Thomas with assaulting the said Annie, and committing divers wrongs and injuries upon her. Annie was called upon the stand, to give her testimony, in behalf of the prosecution, when the first question propounded, was, "whether she was a married woman or single," she replied, "I am married," whereupon, Francis B. Pockham, Jr. Esq., counsel for the respondent Shields, arose and moved that the complaint be dismissed upon the ground that the complainant being a married woman, could not herself make a complaint and enter into recognizance to prosecute successfully, or to pay charges in case of failure. The Court sustained the motion and dismissed the case, adding that a married woman could make a complaint herself against her own husband; for assault, but a complaint in her behalf, against any other party for a like offense, must be made by the husband or some near friend.

ACCIDENT.—A man named Charles McLaughlin, one of the railroad men, fell in to the dock from Banister's Wharf last evening and came near being drowned. He was rescued by one of the Constitution's men and taken to the store of George Denison, where he was resuscitated sufficiently to speak, and was then conveyed to his boarding house on Long Wharf, where he was denied admittance, but was finally received at the house of a friend in Touris street, and was properly cared for.

MUSICAL.—The people on Steves' Wharf were treated to a little vocal music last night by a band of serenaders consisting of some half a dozen voices that were confined in an out-building in that vicinity. The song was most melodious, but we can recollect only one line of the chorus—"We won't go home till morning."

THE RAILROAD MEN who struck for wages yesterday morning, came into the city and had a merry time. Four of them becoming a little too gay to be decent were provided by the Police with rooms in the watch house to give them an opportunity for sober reflection.

The Nashville Union says Mr. Floyd, late member of the rebel Tennessee Legislature from DeKalb county, renounces all connection with the Confederate Government, and with the other day, and took the oath of allegiance to the good old Union. And still the change goes on. The storm of a grand reaction sounds in the distance.

"THE CONTRABANDS."

It will be seen by the following letter that the first box of second hand clothing contributed for the "Contrabands" at Port Royal by various persons in this City was thankfully received, and greatly needed. We understand two more boxes have been sent there. Other contributions will be forwarded if left at the store of A. Parmenter.

BRADFORD, S. C.
March 31, 1862.

Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you that your box of clothing for the destitute freed men, women and children of Port Royal and its vicinity arrived safely and was this day opened by the benevolent ladies who accompanied me from New York. Every article, the ladies say, finds a want, and had they one hundred such boxes they would dispose of all in one week. To-day a superintendent came in saying he had 400 people on his two plantations and scarcely one had a second garment. Another Prof. Zachos from Parry Island and having 300 in charge returned with only enough unmade cloth for about 20 pairs of pants. Thirty thousand dollars worth of clothes are needed now. Eighteen ladies came to assist in the humane work. Five are out on plantations, some are teaching and attending the sick, some have established a hospital, and others a home for the poor and friendless. Had I one hundred ladies and the above amount of clothing, all would not meet the demand. The throngs that wait at our doors in rage and sufferings almost break the ladies' hearts sometimes. About 60 men have now taken charge of plantations, and to all we have sent a small box of clothing, and must wait until another arrival. The people are eager to learn. Our ladies are teaching school in which may be seen barefoot women bust-less and some in rags, and some with a nursing child in their arms. It is enough to melt a heart of stone to witness the sight. God is in the work. This people is never to wear the yoke again what ever barriers we may fail to put between them and Slavery, God will supply, send us all the clothes, and speedily do what you can.

Yours Truly,
M. FRENCH,
Agent, National Freedmen's Relief Association.

A Woman Appointed Major.—The Peoria (Ill.) Transcript says:
Governor Yates has paid a rather unusual but well merited compliment to Mrs. Reynolds, wife of Lieut. Reynolds, of Company A, Seventeenth Illinois, and a resident of this city. Mrs. Reynolds has accompanied her husband through which the greater part of the campaign through which the Seventeenth has passed, sharing with him the dangers and privations of a soldier's life. She was present at the battle of Pittsburg Landing, and like a ministering angel, attended to the wants of as many of the wounded and dying soldiers as she could, the brave fellows by whom she was surrounded. Governor Yates, hearing of her heroic and praiseworthy conduct, presented her with a commission as Major in the army, the document conferring the well merited honor being made out with all due formality, and having attached the great seal of the State. Probably no lady in America will ever again have such a distinguished military honor conferred upon her. Mrs. Reynolds is now in this city and leaves to join her regiment in a day or two.

Gov. Andrew Johnson has received an appeal from four rebel Tennesseeans now held as prisoners of war at Chicago. They say—

"We are willing to take the oath of allegiance and go home, and there be contented. The rich men promised to take good care of our families, but they have suffered ever since we left home."

One of these men has six children, another seven, another eight. They and their plaintive plea with words like these: "Help, help, help! oh, help suffering humanity! We are all from forty-five to sixty years old. God help us!" R. B. Ellis, Franklin Gifford, James Wiley, Wesley Russell.

The Baltimore American says Gen. C. B. Conrad was one of the strong unconditional Union members in the Virginia Secession Convention. After that body had finished its work of treason, Mr. Conrad returned to his home in Gilmer county, and was soon after seduced by Gov. Letcher, who offered him a Brigadier-Generalship in the rebel army. The bait took, and Mr. Conrad fell into the snare. About two weeks since, having become heartily sick of his position, he left the rebel ranks and voluntarily gave up himself to the Union officers, and was sent to Wheeling, where he is now, awaiting an investigation. He thinks the rebellion is tumbling to pieces very fast.

The Nashville Union quotes the following from the Nashville Gazette of the 13th. of last February:
It is said there are still some Union men in Nashville. It is possible that such WHITE LIVERED SCOUNDRELS are really in our midst, our citizens CANNOT BE TOO VIGILANT IN WATCHING THEIR MOVEMENTS. WATCH THEM! WATCH THEM! WATCH THEM! Such was the spirit that governed the rebels of Nashville when that city was in their power! How different is the spirit that is now shown toward them! But do they appreciate it?

On duty that some of the schoolmarms who went to South Carolina several weeks ago, are not so intent upon "teaching the young ideas, how to shoot," as upon flirting with the officers, in a manner not entirely consistent with morality. Gen. Hunter is going to send some of the misbehaving misses home.

Prof. Bache, of the Coast Survey, reports, that next to Port Royal, St. Helena Sound is the best harbor on the Southern Coast. Two channels of seventeen feet each at mean low water line enter it, and from the Sound the country may be penetrated by gunboats nearly to the railroad.

The Ohio river at Cairo is still rising but the inhabitants are using all means to prevent disastrous effects. Memphis papers advise the Southern people to invest in real estate while shipwreckers are current. The rebels are losing confidence in their ability to hold the valley of the Mississippi.

WAR NEWS.

TREMENDOUS FLOOD ON THE MISSISSIPPI.
COLUMBUS, HICKMAN AND NEW MADRID UNDER WATER.

Chicago, Ill., May 1.—A special dispatch to the Times from Cairo says the steamer Diligence, from Tiptonville, reports an alarming stage of water in the surrounding country on the Mississippi. Hundreds of houses on the banks of the river there and at New Madrid are submerged.

Thousands of cattle, sheep and hogs have been washed away. Many families are living on flatboats. Everywhere along the river is very great suffering in consequence of the unprecedented flood. The whole of Columbus up to the fortifications is overflowed and water is running into the windows of the houses. Hickman is also suffering greatly.

The fortifications at Island No. 10 and on the main land opposite are still above water, excepting the upper battery. A large amount of cannon and heavy ordnance stores captured from the rebels on the main shore, are still lying in the bayou, and cannot be removed until the water subsides. Point Pleasant is entirely drowned out.

Memphis papers of the 16th say that at a convention of cotton planters at Selma, Ala., it was unanimously resolved to restrict the production of cotton to 500 pounds for each hand employed, and advising the cultivation of breadstuffs instead. A tax of $25 per bale is recommended on all grown over that amount.

Martial law has been declared in East Tennessee.

The Columbus (Georgia) Works are turning out six cannon per day.

Albert Pike has issued an order compelling his Indian allies for gallantry at Pea Ridge.

THE KANSAS DEPARTMENT.

STURGIS AND DEVER TO BE REMOVED.

St. Louis, May 1.—Col. Jennison received a letter yesterday from a senator at Washington, stating in explicit terms that an order relieving Gen. Sturgis and Denver of their commands in Kansas, has been forwarded from the War Department. Jennison was yesterday relieved for his personal policy. He is now only obliged to report by letter. Under this liberty he expects to leave for Washington to-day.

The Charleston Mercury makes mention of the burning of the homestead of W. Gilmore Simms, the novelist and poet. We suppose it was the house in Barnwell District, in which he generally passed a part of the year, the hospitalities of which his friends were ever welcome. There are many in these latitudes who will heartily sympathize with his misfortune with profound regret.
